Shots Peril U. S. Ambassador to China

GUNS FIRED AT FLAGSHIP NEAR CHINESE PORT

Incident Recalls Early Jap Warning That Envoy Was To Be 'Assassinated.'

Nippon Says Gunfire Came From Chinese; Point to 'Threats' by Kai-Shek.

(By United Press)

SHANGHAI—Several shots were fired today near the U. S. S. Luzon, flagship of the United States Yangtze patrol, a few miles above the river port of Wuhu. Nelson T. Johnson, U. S. ambassador to China, was aboard the gunboat.

It was not definitely established whether the shots were fired at the Luzon or whether they were aimed at a Japanese merchant ship on the Yangtze river not far from the American gunboat.

But it was recalled that last month Japanese official circles in Shanghai warned that a Chinese attempt to "assassinate" Ambassador Johnson would be made while he was making an inspection of conditions along the river.

Aboard the gunboat with Johnson was Rear Admiral William C. Glassford, commander of the United States Yangtze patrol.

Had Been on Cruise.

They were returning to Shanghai after a cruise up the river which took them as far as Hankow. Until today the trip had been made with no untoward incidents despite the Japanese charges that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek had planned an attack on Johnson as part of an effort to embarrass the Japanese in their international relations.

Japanese sources in Nanking said today that the shots fired in the direction of the Luzon above Wuhu had been fired by Chinese guerrilla soldiers. There was no other indication, however, as to who fired the shots. The Luzon was not struck.

HONGKONG — (AP) — Japanese reported today more than 200,000 Chinese troops had been thrown into perilous confusion in Kwangsi province by a gigantic pincer movement.

They said Japanese ground forces, supported by warplanes attacking in mass, were continuing a relentless onslaught along the entire front in the province in China's deep south.

Keep Freedom of Press Intact, Ohio Publishers Told

COLUMBUS —(NS)— In time of war or other national emergencies, the freedom of the press should not be curtailed or jeopardized in any manner. That was the assertion left today with Ohio newspaper publishers by Professor Harold Cross, of Columbia university.

Cross, special counsel for the American Newspaper Publishers' association, reviewed attempts to silence the press and said "let us not forget that our guarantees of this (press) freedom were born in an emergency."

His address was made to the closing session of the Ohio Newspaper association convention last night during a banquet attended by Gov. John W. Bricker and scores of state officials. Before the banquet, Roy D. Moore, general manager of the Brush-Moore newspapers, was elected president of the Ohio Newspaper association. Ralph D. Henderson, the Columbus Citizen, was named vice president. Other officers:

E. C. Dix, Wooster Record, treasurer; W. F. Wiley, the Cincinnati Enquirer, chairman of the board; Ed M. Martin, Columbus executive director; Paul Gingher, Columbus, counsel; Walter Reck, Ohio State Journal, legislative committee chairman.

2 ESCAPE DEATH AS ICE BREAKS

Willard Men's Auto Falls Into Lake 3 Miles From Shore as Companions Look On.

WILLARD—Two Willard business men who narrowly escaped death yesterday when their car broke through the ice on Lake Erie were recovering today from the most harrowing experience of their lives.

Earl Frye, editor of the Willard Times, and J. P. Beamer, an electrician, managed to crawl out of the freezing water to safety after a car driven by Frye plunged into a hole in the ice and dangled by the rear bumper three miles from shore.

Beamer, who had the narrowest escape, received cuts and bruises on his arms and shoulders and was suffering from a cold today. Except for the shock, Frye appeared none the worse for his experience.

En route to Johnson's island to fish, the men were within a mile of the island when the car suddenly struck an air hole in the ice and plunged forward.

ORDERS INQUIRY

U. S. Calls Grand Jury Probe Of Associated Gas.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The justice department has ordered a grand jury investigation into proceedings which recently threw into bankruptcy Associated Gas and Electric company, top holding company of a $1,000,000,000 utility system.

In announcing the investigation last night, Attorney General Robert H. Jackson said the government sought to determine whether "those participating in the management or financing of such affairs have violated any federal law."

A. G. E., one of the country's largest utility holding companies, filed papers in voluntary bankruptcy Jan. 10.

Jackson said the investigation would be conducted by Hugh A. Fulton, executive assistant to John T. Cahill, federal district attorney for the southern district of New York.

Claims Military Alliance With British One of Borah's Fears

(Editor's Note: — The late Senator Borah was an implacable foe of British diplomacy because he believed that England had struggled for 122 years to destroy George Washington's injunction against entangling alliances. His sentiments are revealed in the following article, the 14th of a series on the famed statesman by William K. Hutchinson of International News Service.)

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

WASHINGTON —(NS)—William Edgar Borah was an implacable foe of British diplomacy because he believed Britain sought constantly to involve the United States in an entangling military alliance to preserve her far-flung empire.

Borah believed British diplomats had struggled ever since 1812 to destroy George Washington's injunction against entangling alliances. He frequently suspected President Roosevelt of leaning toward an alliance with Britain only to be deterred by the passion of the American people for "minding our own business and staying out of Europe."

Often Borah objected to state

Third Institute Brings Speakers On Wide Variety of Topics to City

Annual Series Sponsored By Two Clubs Opens Monday Night.

Mansfielders will have a chance to get first-hand information on a wide variety of subjects at the third annual Institute of International Understanding, which opens Monday night at the Senior high auditorium, and continues each Monday throughout the month.

Topics for lectures are the Far East, Europe, aviation's bearing on international understanding and a peaceful world order.

Attended by near-capacity and capacity crowds in other years, the Institute sessions this year are also expected to be well attended.

As in the past two years, they are sponsored by the Mansfield University and Rotary clubs, and are open to the public without charge. Each meeting will open at 8 p. m., and at the conclusion of the speaker's address, will be thrown open for a question period.

Opening the series Monday night will be the only woman among the four speakers, and the only woman speaker the Institute has ever brought here.

She is Marcelle C. Miller, whose topic will be "Problems In the Far East."

Born in Paris, Mrs. Miller was married at the close of the World war to an officer of the U. S. marine corps. She has traveled extensively and is a writer and speaker of note.

Prince Hubertus zu Loewenstein, speaker at the Feb. 12 meeting, talks on "The Changing Scene In Europe." Austrian-born German prince, Loewenstein was active in Austria's struggle for independence, and his book, "After Hitler's Fall," caused him to be exiled from Germany. He now lives in New York.

H. Canfield Cook, of Chicago, will speak Feb. 19 on "The Influence of Aviation in International Relations." Member of the National Aeronautic association, Cook served in the British royal flying corps during the World war.

Marcelle C. Miller . . . here Feb. 5 . . . speaks on "Problems in the Far East."

H. Canfield Cook . . . here Feb. 19 . . . speaks on "The Influence of Aviation in International Relations."

Benjamin Gerig . . . here Feb. 26 . . . speaks on "Can a Peaceful World Order be Organized?"

The final speaker in the series is Benjamin Gerig, who is to be here Feb. 26, to speak on the subject, "Can a Peaceful World Order Be Organized?" Dr. Gerig's study and training has specialized on international relations and he has written a number of articles and books on related subjects. Long residence abroad, with study and travel, has earned him acceptance as an authority on world affairs.

Light Vote Seen as Only 22 Get Absentee Ballots

Number Considered Small for Primary; Election Board Ready for Special Primary Tuesday.

Still waiting for the ballots for next Tuesday's special primary election, the county election board today closed the period for obtaining absentee ballots after 22 voters had requested ballots or voted at the board's headquarters.

Considered unusually light for a primary, the 22 absentee votes forecast a light vote Tuesday in the special congressional election, board officials said.

The absent voters' deadline closed at noon today, but the ballots may be marked and returned to the board until noon Monday. Six ballots have already been voted.

The election board expected to have the ballots either today or Monday morning for distribution to the county's 91 precincts by Monday afternoon.

Only a few ballots have been delivered to the election board to take care of the demands of absentee voters. The others are late, it was said, because the printers have had less than a week to print them.

Ballots could not be ordered until Wednesday after the election boards in all six of the counties in the 17th district had certified the candidates.

SEAMLESS TUBE NETS $260,000

Shelby Company Has Best Year Since '29, Stockholders Told; 650 on Payroll.

SHELBY—Declaring 1939 the "best year since 1929," E. W. McNeill, secretary-treasurer of the Ohio Seamless Tube company, yesterday told stockholders that the company last year netted a profit of $260,874.25 as compared with a loss of $86,128.32 in 1938.

McNeill's announcement was made at the annual re-organization meeting during which the board of directors re-elected W. C. Connelly, Cleveland, president for the third successive year.

Stockholders also were told that the company's current assets amounted to $1,425,208.25 and that current liabilities totaled $321,056.57.

He said that business had "substantially increased" during the past year and that 650 persons were now employed at the plant.

All officers and directors of the company were re-elected for another year.

W. W. VanHorn was re-named vice-president; Edwin Mansfield of Mansfield was re-elected chairman of the board of directors; McNeill, secretary-treasurer; C. S. Watters, assistant secretary-treasurer, and H. O. Mayer, works manager.

SAWYER WILLING

Says He Would Run as 'Favorite Son' If Donahey Doesn't.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Charles Sawyer, Cincinnati, Ohio Democratic national committee, has indicated to President Roosevelt that he would be willing to be Ohio's "favorite son" candidate at the party's national convention if Sen. Vic Donahey declines the honor, it was reported today.

Sawyer, it was understood, is willing to run under a pledge to support a third nomination for the president after a first ballot complimentary vote.

GIRL FRIEND'S LETTER LEADS TO ARREST OF 5

4 Youths Held In Morrow Jail, Fifth In Delaware In Wave Of Thefts, One Hold-Up.

NOTE 'TIPS OFF' SHERIFF

Quizzes Youth to Whom Letter Was Addressed and He Implicates Others.

MT. GILEAD—Four youths, being held in county jail today in connection with a wave of petty thefts, robberies and hold-ups, were reflecting on the inadvisability of taking a girl friend along on a thieving expedition. A fifth boy is being held in Delaware county jail.

Their arrest came about after Sheriff Oscar George of Morrow county found a letter, written by a school girl from Marengo to one of the youths under arrest, in which she said: "If you don't return my picture, I'll tell the sheriff on you."

Sheriff George declined to say how he came into possession of the letter, but he said he immediately questioned the girl who is not being held and the boy to whom it was addressed.

Boys Confess Crimes.

The boy, 18, admitted several of the thefts and involved another boy, 19, who confessed that the wave of petty thefts and robberies over a period of three months was the work of five boys, including himself.

The high school girl whose written threat led to George uncovering the youthful crime ring, is said to have been with several of the boys when gasoline was stolen on various occasions. She had given her picture to one of them and then asked for its return. When he refused to do so, she wrote him the letter in which she threatened to "tell."

Sheriff George said the boys readily confessed a number of robberies and one hold-up with a gun in which $31 in cash was obtained from a store at Olive Green, O., last month.

During the past three months, George said, there have been many reports of gasoline stolen, and on two different occasions a huckster truck belonging to the Fuller Market of Maringo has been looted of foods, candy and cigarets.

The ages of the five boys range from 17 to 19. The one youth is being held in Delaware because one of the robberies was committed in that county, the sheriff said.

George said he believed the arrests would break up a crime wave which has plagued officers of the two counties since early last fall.

A GOOD START

January Car Sales Register Sharp Increase.

With one exception, Richland county automobile dealers sold more new cars in January than in any month in the past two years.

Sales for the month totaled 253, an increase of 99 over January of last year and 20 more than dealers sold last December. Only March, 1939, when 313 cars were sold, was a better month for the automobile agencies.

Truck sales also showed a marked increase last month in the county, with 23 sold as compared with 18 last January and 11 in December. Norman Henry, deputy county clerk of courts, reported.

Shoot Down 2 Bombing Planes Attacking Ships

Third Bomber Believed Destroyed by Swift British Craft; German Heinkels Sweep Down on Northeast Coast, Open Up Attack With Machine Gun Fire.

(By United Press)

LONDON—British Royal Air Force fighter planes shot down two and possibly three German Heinkel bombers in a series of fights off the northeast coast today. One German plane, at least, was severely damaged, the air ministry announced.

German planes resumed their attacks on shipping off the east coast this afternoon. A German plane dropped six bombs on a steamer which had been attacked by another German plane an hour earlier. All bombs were wide of the mark. The plane vanished into the clouds and more explosions were heard a few seconds later.

German bombers came through the mist over the east and northeast coasts this morning. Splitting up, they swept down on ships of all sizes, from fishing trawlers up, and opened up with their machine guns.

British fighter planes went up, raced out to sea, and engaged them. The air ministry was able to announce first that one German plane had been shot down over the sea and that another was "very seriously damaged."

There followed soon that there was a third fight—officially "a successful interception"—and that a second enemy plane had been shot down off the River Tyne. A ship went to the rescue of its crew.

Narrowly Misses Cottage.

One German plane crashed on the Yorkshire coast, narrowly missing a cottage and crashing in flames. It was not clear whether this plane was one of those of which the air ministry spoke, but it was indicated that there were three "successful interceptions." One plane was down in Yorkshire, one off the Tyne and it was believed that the third plane may have crashed near the coast.

It was the most successful retort yet by the Royal Air Force to the bombing, dart-dropping, machine gunning German planes which have preyed on ships along the coast.

Wasp-like British fighters of new type went up as soon as the German planes appeared.

Witnesses ashore watched fights. In one of them three British fighters dived about a German plane. They chased it back and forth. Billows of smoke began to bulge from the German plane. Stricken, it sank lower and lower as its crew tried desperately to escape.

People saw three British planes chase one German plane low over a coastal town, where it crashed. It was the first German plane shot down on English soil since the start of the war. First reports were that four of the plane's crew were killed and the fifth wounded; later reports said that one man was killed and three wounded, taken to hospital.

From various points along the coast came stories of engagements. Watchers on the Northumber-

HOPES RISE FOR GAS STRIKE END

Federal Mediator Starts to Arrange For Settlement of Toledo Controversy.

(By Associated Press)

TOLEDO—Hopes rose today for settlement of the gas strike that has made more than 1,000 workers idle as a federal conciliator scheduled a point meeting of union and company officials.

The Gas and By-products, Coke and Chemical Workers' union (CIO) struck Wednesday morning to enforce demands for a signed contract, embodying a union shop, a 12½ per cent wage increase and seniority clauses.

David T. Roadley, of Cleveland, U. S. Department of Labor mediator, met with union and city officials last night.

The strike interrupted industry, forcing 1,000 out of work and threatening the jobs of thousands more through the shutdown of plants. Meanwhile, additional men were placed in the West Central avenue plant that the flow of gas to commercial consumers be maintained.

The strikers are employes of the Affiliated Ohio Fuel Gas and Northwestern Ohio Natural Gas companies.

City council decided there would be no further negotiations between the city and the companies on gas rates pending settlement of the strike.

Edmund Ruffin, director of the Toledo Industrial Peace board, prepared a digest of points on which there was substantial agreement between the union and management. He said sole bargaining rights were not an issue, but that the companies would not grant a "union shop" agreement.

HOT DAYS AHEAD

Students Parade City Hall With Demand for Swimming Pool.

CEDAR CITY, Utah —(AP)—Junior high school students are doing their part to speed up the slow working of the municipal government.

Noting construction of a swimming pool had not started although bonds were voted a year ago, the students paraded in front of the city offices with signs stating "we want a swimming pool, when do we get it?"

Brunner Says 'No' to Plan to Make Him Dem Chairman

Henry G. Brunner, former Mansfield mayor and now Ohio state manager of the Home Owners Loan corporation, gave a flat "no" answer today to a suggestion that he return to the position of chairman of the state Democratic executive committee.

Associated Press dispatches from Washington said that Democratic leaders there believed that Walter Heer Franklin county Democratic chairman had made the suggestion in a connection with Senator Vic Donahey, that Brunner replace State Chairman Arthur Limbach and that Limbach be given Brunners present HOLC post.

Reached at his home here, Brunner, when asked if whether he would consider the chairmanship if offered, said: "My answer is no." Brunner was chairman during the administration of Gov. George White.

Heer yesterday left with Senator Donahey in Washington a three-page memorandum recommending re-organization of the Democratic party in Ohio, the dispatches said.

Heer, who described Donahey as the "titular head" of Ohio Democrats, let it be known that he proposed:

DEFIES SNOW

Stork Delivers Baby Boy In Storm-Bound Home.

BOSWELL, Pa.—(AP)—The stork again has passed up medical aid to deliver a baby in the snow swept mountain country of western Pennsylvania.

Dr. F. E. Sass said he was summoned to the Ernest Kauffman home eight miles away shortly after midnight yesterday but his automobile stalled in the snow far from his destination.

Walking in drifts up to the waist, the physician finally reached the place five hours later only to find Mrs. Kauffman had given birth to a healthy daughter with only two neighbor women in attendance.

Mother and baby were doing nicely.

ASHLANDER ESCAPES

VAN WERT, O.—(NS)—Only a bruised leg was suffered by James Frank Adams, of Ashland, today when his truck was struck by a Pennsylvania passenger train at a Van Wert crossing.

Economy Bloc Wins Battle For Slash In Farm Funds

HOUSE PASSES BILL REDUCED BY 66 MILLION

Measure Goes to Senate Where New Fight Looms to Restore Appropriation Slash.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — That nightmare of many congressmen, the fear of having to vote in this election year for new taxes or an increase in the national debt limit, helped economy advocates win house approval last night for a drastic reduction in federal farm outlays.

Without a record vote, the chamber passed an agricultural supply bill which would provide $66,928,435 less than President Roosevelt proposed for activities in behalf of the farmer during the fiscal year starting July 1.

The house held the measure to a total of $722,001,084, which is $579,339,231 under the total available for the current fiscal year. It retained many of the reductions made by its appropriations committee, despite the fact that the president had called the committee cuts perfectly terrible and Rep. Jones (D-Tex) had pleaded with tears in his eyes for restoration of a $25,000,000 loan fund to help tenants become farm owners.

Now the bill goes to the senate, where farm state members will try to restore it to the size asked by Mr. Roosevelt and undertake also to add at least $200,000,000 for "parity" payments. These would be designed to give farmers the same purchasing power, in terms of non-farm goods, that they had in 1909-14.

Last year congress appropriated $1,301,340,315 for farm expenditures.

In his budget message this year, telling congress how it could keep within the $45,000,000,000 debt limit with only $460,000,000 of new taxes, Mr. Roosevelt asked a farm appropriation of $788,929,519 and congressional permission for the Rural Electrification administration to borrow $40,000,000 from the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

The $722,001,084 house bill includes the $40,000,000 as an outright appropriation, however. It was put in that form after Rep. Taber (R-NY) raised a legal point against the procedure suggested by the chief executive.

In four days of debate, during which farm bloc members charged that agriculture was being forced to bear the brunt of the economy drive, the house added only $87,626,828 to the amount recommended by its appropriations committee.

Garner To Enter Primaries In Five States

VICE PRESIDENT CHARTS BATTLE ON THIRD TERM

Definitely Makes Bid For Georgia Delegates; Plans To Enter Ohio.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Vice-President John Nance Garner began carrying to the nation today his campaign against a third term for President Roosevelt.

Garner, the only Democratic presidential candidate without any "if" reservations, announced he would enter the Georgia primaries, and planned to enter primaries in California, Wisconsin, Oregon and possibly Ohio.

His announcement was timed to anticipate a meeting of the Democratic national committee in Washington Monday. It was certain that the Texan's move would be a big topic of conversation among the Democratic big-wigs coming here to pick a 1940 convention city.

Bidding for the convention were Chicago, Philadelphia, Los Angeles and San Francisco. But overshadowing that behind-the-scenes maneuvering was the outright move of Garner to enter the primary in Georgia, a state where President Roosevelt failed to "purge" Senator Walter F. George in the 1938 elections.

It was George who set the stage for the vice-president's first excursion into a state primary. Under Georgia's law, the Democratic state executive committee is empowered to call a preferential primary. If one is held, the winning candidate has the power to name his own delegates to the national convention.

George wrote Garner asking him if he would be a candidate if a primary is called. Garner replied in the affirmative. Politicos in Washington immediately interpreted Garner's announcement as a definite move to block a third term for the president and in any event drive a wedge against a third term into the so-called "solid south."

CHECK TROUBLE

Youth Accused of Cashing Bad Ones Held to Jury.

Pleading guilty to a charge of issuing checks with insufficient funds when arraigned in municipal court this morning, Ernest Fisher, 21, of Dola, Hardin county, was bound over to the grand jury under $2,500 bond.

The charges were filed by J. G. Blahnik, manager of the Montgomery Ward and company store, who accused Fisher of tendering a $35 bogus check in payment for $32 in merchandise purchased several days ago. He said Fisher was given $3 in change.

The check drawn on a Kenton bank was similiar to three others he is accused of passing to Mansfield merchants.

Richman Brothers employes reported cashing a worthless check for $23 in payment for a suit; A. Tootikian, optometrist, said he accepted a worthless $21 check in payment for a pair of glasses and Mrs. Harry Dennis, Coliseum, said she cashed a $20 check that was no good.

MOVIE OFFICIAL ENDS OWN LIFE

Sidney Dannenberg Was Well Known in Mansfield.

A United Press story today tells of the suicide in Hollywood of Sidney Dannenberg, Cleveland, who was publicity director for Warner Brothers in Ohio, and who has a number of friends and acquaintances in Mansfield which he frequently visited.

A news dispatch says Dannenberg fashioned a gas chamber of a blanket and turned on the gas. He left an incoherent 46 page letter. He had gone to Hollywood a month ago in hopes of regaining his health. Shortly before going to the west coast he had spent several months in a Cleveland hospital.

Mr. Dannenberg had made regular trips to Warner Brothers theaters in Mansfield for the past ten years.

Up and Down THE STREET

Singing for the director of a nationally known dance band was the experience of Sue Paste, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd B. Paste, 25 Euclid avenue, a student at Ohio University, the other day. Miss Paste, who is a member of a girl's trio at the university, sang for Kay Kyser, who with his orchestra played for the universitys' annual junior prom. The trio presented a song written by an Ohio U. student.

Former News-Journal champions are making names for themselves in other sports this winter. Lester Grieblng, who won the first Soap Box Derby staged by The News-Journal a few years ago, is a member of the Lexington high basketball team. And Jay Arnold, once a News-Journal marbles champion, who competed in the national tournament in Wildwood, N. J., performs with the unbeaten Shiloh high quintet.

Traffic officers are no respecters of persons when it comes to tagging illegally parked cars. They chalked up their first score against their "boss," Mayor William J. Locke this week. Locke had driven one of the city cars and on returning to city hall parked the machine in a 15-minute zone in front of the building and then forgot about it. Several hours later he remembered and there on the windshield was one of those familiar yellow tickets. He didn't try to "fix" it.

Although spring is still several weeks away, budding romances at the two new Mansfield junior high schools made a problem for principals and teachers this week. Several boys and girls, who wanted to be in the same rooms, attempted to have their assignments changed and a few of them went into other rooms anyway, hoping that they would not be noticed. The ruse failed to work, however, and no room assignments were changed because of "heart interests."

DR. RACE DIES

Former Mansfielder Practiced In Chicago 40 Years.

BELIEVES HER FATHER FIRST AMERICAN TO DIE IN FINLAND

(By United Press)

SANTA Fe, N. M. — William Wallace, aviator whose "love for Democracy" twice led him to foreign battlefields, has been shot down in Finland by Russian fliers, his daughter said today.

Mrs. Roger William Cheney said she had received word from New York friends that her father, a 56-year-old World war hero and recently in the air conditioning business in Augusta, Ga., had shot down three Russian planes before his death.

Details of the battle—even over what sector it occurred—were not known, Mrs. Cheney said, but she believed it was the first in which her father had participated. She believed he was the first American to die in the Finnish conflict.

Wallace, before the World war a member of the New York Stock Exchange, was decorated twice by the French and once by the American government in the World war. He was a member of the Lafayette escadrille, early war-time American volunteer air squad attached to the French army, and was later with the American forces.

He received the Croix de Guerre with two palms and the congressional medal for gallantry. He was awarded membership in the French Legion of Honor.

"His love for Democracy always was his most outstanding characteristic," Mrs. Cheney said. "When the war broke out again in Europe last September, he became deeply interested, and planned to go to Paris to organize a volunteer ambulance unit.

"Then, when Russia invaded Finland last Nov. 30, he could stand it no longer. He often said that he was willing to fight for the cause of Democracy, no matter what the odds or circumstances."

DROPS ACTION

Plaintiff In $1,000 Slander Suit Granted Withdrawal.

Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch today had granted J. Thomas Kiley, former waterworks secretary, a withdrawal of his slander action against J. A. Geiger, Mansfield funeral director, in which he sought to collect $1,000 damages.

The withdrawal motion was filed in municipal court by Kiley's counsel, Atty. R. W. Lett of Ashland. The action leaves on file Kiley's answer to Geiger's suit for $500 and Kiley's request for a jury trial.

Kiley's cross petition holds the money is owed by the estate of the late Mrs. Ellen Kiley, his mother. He charges that the amount claimed due by Geiger is "preposterous, exorbitant and far exceeds the reasonable and fair value of services and materials rendered."

The case is scheduled to be heard by a jury on Feb. 7.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Mrs. Isabel M. Frost, 41, was burned seriously today in a fire which caused $600 damage to her apartment.

Mrs. Frost was found unconscious on the floor of the living room by firemen. Her head apparently had struck a baseboard when she fell.

Assistant Fire Chief Clarence Ogborn theorized that Mrs. Frost fell asleep while smoking a cigaret. When her clothes caught fire, she awoke and then stumbled while running into the living room.

Not That It Matters

Columnist's Fervor Gets Her In a Jam--Why Be So Technical About Horses?

—By JANE WILLIAMS

THE Veterans of Foreign Wars of Newark, N. J., announced this week that they would ask for a Dies committee investigation of Columnist Dorothy Thompson, whom they charge with trying to involve this country in war. The furore followed her address in Newark on "What Kind of Peace?"

This once very fine newspaper woman who has turned crusader does seem at times as though she were willing to send every man and boy in America to Europe to shoulder the burdens of the oppressed nations. I think she would be perfectly willing to go herself and man a machine gun—especially if it were turned on Germany. And in all probability she feels that our present neutrality is "peace without honor."

But honor is such a debatable term, with a flexible meaning. And if a stern determination to keep out of a centuries-old turmoil is dishonorable, then let us wrap our mantle of dishonor about us and make the best of it. After the turmoil is over—at least for a breathing spell, we'll have our men and boys and we'll try to bear our "dishonor."

SEEMS as how the horsemen of these here now parts of the country are pretty particular about their parlance, and my head bowed—well, almost bowed—under a deluge of corrections on a story of a horse in last Sunday's issue of the paper.

"If you knew anything of horses at all, you'd know that there isn't any such thing as a thoroughbred saddle horse," said one, "as any horseman knows that the term is applied only to running horses." And another faintly supercilious correction was "Anyone knows that horses aren't born, but foaled."

And both are wrong. If a horse isn't born, then it's hatched—and does that sound silly?—because there are only two methods of perpetuating the animal kingdom, "Foaled" is merely a horseman's term for birth.

And while "Thoroughbred" was once the name of a class of horse—in the same sense as Palomino, Arabian, Belgian and Shetland—it has long since come to mean anything of pure strain, man or beast.

So there. And don't send me to another such session with dictionaries and encyclopedias.

THAT Reminds Me: Ringmaster Jim Farley intimated in his North Carolina speech that he was opposed to presidential third terms because they were contrary to 150 years of American tradition. Which suggests that Jim either puts country above party, or that he wouldn't be averse to tossing his own hat in the ring . .

By the way, how long has it been since Hitler had his clothes off? Remember he said at the beginning of the war that he'd never take off his uniform until Germany won the war? Seems as if it would need pressing or something by this time . . .

John L. Lewis' statement that Madame Secretary Perkins was "woozy in the head," will seem to many persons to be a gross understatement. Mr. Lewis' entire attitude toward Madame Perkins, President Roosevelt and the department of labor seems to be one of utter disillusionment. What changes the years do bring!

Associated Press tells of a Russian court ordering a drunken hit-and-run driver, whose car had killed a woman, put to death. He had been fined previously on ten traffic charges. Now THERE'S something we could learn from Russia.

OUT in St. Louis a baseball player — one of the Browns —has been granted $15 a week unemployment compensation for the winter months.

Oscar, whose pitcher and by-line dominate The News-Journal sports page, thinks maybe the entire team should have unemployment compensation—especially during the baseball season.

DOROTHY DIX, first and most famous of the lovelorn writers, says that marriage to a "first love" involves considerable risk.

More than that, Dorothy. If we women married our first loves, what would we have to hold over our husband's heads? Nothing so reduces a husband as to hear about his wife's "first love."

Of course there are a few brutes who always give a Bronx cheer when a wife mentions her "first love." Ask me.

JUST about the time you begin to think that maybe John Barrymore has reached adulthood and left adolescence behind, up pops Elaine and we all have to go through the same thing again.

At least we've been spared one indignity—no one has ever referred to their hit-and-miss marriage as a "great love affair."

GEN. JOHNSON:

Finds Snags In Proposal To Provide Hospitals For Country's Small Towns

—By HUGH S. JOHNSON

NEW YORK—It is hard to write a word unfavorable to the president's plan to have the federal government begin building small "experimental" hospitals in towns that do not have such service.

I have lived in such towns myself. Even in larger towns which have had such hospitals, I have been made personally and painfully aware of the backwardness of some doctors who do not or cannot keep in touch with the rapidly improving and developing medical profession.

It is desirable to have hospitals in places where they are not. So are many other things desirable. It would be swell for every family to have an income of $2,400 a year, for every boy and girl to go to college and for all ill and undernourished people to be taken care of and restored to robust health.

But there are limits to what the federal government—or any state or city government—can undertake or do.

This is a request for a maximum of only $10,000,000 to build experimental hospitals. But what is there "experimental" about small hospitals? The government has hundreds of them at army posts or on naval vessels.

* * *

And if it is just and proper for the government to favor one small community by building a hospital for it, how can it refuse to build one in every town in similar circumstances?

That wouldn't be a matter of $10,000,000. It would be undertaking by government of a complete new field of spending that might run into billions of dollars and be added to many other new and sometimes questionable vistas of public spending that we have recently opened up.

Furthermore, the mere building of a hospital is only a beginning. The cost of maintaining it is continuous and very high.

News reports of the president's proposal say nothing about provision for that, except that they do say that the government will own the hospitals. If it owns them, it will be responsible for them. The expense of running them, plus their original cost, could run into staggering figures.

If it had been only a matter of providing buildings, the billions that have gone through WPA into some far less worthy projects could probably have built all the hospitals that are needed—especially in the old federal and civil works administrations, where billions appropriated in part for national defense went for raking leaves.

Hard-boiled as any criticism of this project must seem, congress owes a positive and pressing duty to examine in all its implications before it opens any more expanding spigots into the federal treasury.

* * *

It is true that this proposal doesn't go as far as Senator Wagner's great liberal generosity with taxpayers' money and propose universally socialized medicine at whatever the cost.

It doesn't go as far as Dr. Townsend would like to go to maintain the third of us past middle age at the expense of the third of us who are working and producing to support and prepare the third of us who haven't started. But it goes in the same direction as both of these suggested kindly benefits.

Drive carefully tomorrow—why should a policeman have to be watching YOU?

The January thaw, having been delayed in transit, may be expected to arrive in time for the maple syrup season.

The art of printing from movable type originated 500 years ago—with the typographical error coming along shortly afterward.

Hitler's Seven Years

AFTER seven years of Hitler rule, Nazi Germany stands as an example of the retrogression that a once great nation can suffer through the machinations of one man dominated by an obsession that "might makes right."

All of the fine progress of an earlier Germany has been at least temporarily sacrificed to the frenzied ambitions of an irresponsible zealot, and, after his orgy of destruction has been ended, it will require years—possibly several generations—to restore Germany and its people to the level that had previously been attained.

The record of Hitler has been one of butchery and banditry. He has behaved in a way that might be expected of a throwback to the savagery that preceded human progress toward civilization. His ruthless warfare, his brutal treatment of helpless opponents and his unscrupulous seizure of weaker nations mark him as entirely out of accord with widely accepted views as to relationships that should exist between nations and peoples.

Civilization's forward march, insofar as central Europe is concerned, must await an end of Hitlerism and a return to the sanity of action on which national and world progress is dependent.

From Luxury to Necessity

AN EXCELLENT example of how a luxury is quickly transformed into a necessity, under accepted American standards of living, is seen in present volume production of electric refrigerators, as compared with the few thousand per year turned out in the early stages of this development around fifteen years ago.

From an approximate 5,000 electric refrigerators, retailed at about $550 each, in the first year, the industry has grown to production in excess of two million refrigerators annually.

And, as has been the case with some other innovations—notably the automobile and radio—increased production and sales have made lower prices possible, thus greatly enlarging the field of users.

Recently announced reductions in electric refrigerator prices will undoubtedly have a tendency to further popularize the use of this form of refrigeration as the cost is brought within the means of more families.

The generation that has witnessed progress from cooling edibles in the old spring-house, through the era of "natural ice," the invention of equipment to make artificial ice, and more recently, mechanical refrigeration and its associated field of air conditioning, has been fortunate in being able to observe the modern world in its making.

Promptness of Teachers Commended

THIS YEAR, for the first time, public employes of the state and its subdivisions become income-taxpayers, and, in common with many other persons required to pay this tax, most of them will probably hold off until well toward the March 15 deadline before filing their reports on last year's earnings.

An interesting exception to this spirit of procrastination is being noted over the state, however. It appears that school teachers have been making a rather surprising record for filing returns and making payments in advance of the final rush.

Commenting on this promptness, the Youngstown Vindicator says: "Teachers are disciplined persons, accustomed to having a job to do and trained to get it done and out of the way. By contrast city and county workers, also now subject to tax, have not yet begun to file.

"As one would have expected, the teachers make out their returns intelligently. They are used to comprehending and carrying out detailed instructions. A tax blank is no puzzle to anyone who has helped make a schedule for a thousand children so that no classes will conflict.

"Perhaps they will take a fresh interest in the federal budget now that they have a more direct stake in it. At any rate they are teaching the rest of us a lesson in promptness; if it is heeded it will save many a weary hour of standing in line on March 14 and 15."

Quite likely it is habit, rather than necessity, that causes many people to put off such things until the last possible moment. If teachers can be depended upon to set a good example along this line their influence will thus be further extended beyond schoolroom activities.

C. of C. Annual Meeting Soon

THE annual dinner-meeting of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce, scheduled for Friday evening, February 9, at the Leland hotel, will have more than ordinary significance this year, because of its close association with forthcoming improvement of railroad passenger stations in this city—an accomplishment which had been worked toward for many years as a major project of the organization.

With officials of all three railroads entering Mansfield to be in attendance, as well as men in high positions with several local industries, and a number of other distinguished visitors, it is anticipated that this will be among the most interesting and largely attended annual meetings ever held by the local Chamber of Commerce.

Tagged Motorist Pleased

ONE of the most pleased citizens of Mansfield yesterday was a man who had just been up to the municipal building to pay a dollar after his car had been tagged for overtime parking.

"I hadn't noticed any tagging for over-time parking lately," he remarked. "It's an indication that something's happened to waken up the police department, and that's a fine thing."

"I'll have to be watching," spoke up another motorist. "I thought they'd forgotten all about tagging cars, but maybe the weather's been too cold for policemen to get out."

Or maybe this is Law Enforcement week in Mansfield—but probably not.

Clark Gable is scheduled to draw $2,000,000 dollars in the next seven years—without counting a possible $15 a week additional during seasonal unemployment.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Blue Barron . . . Sometimes he's happy. . . . Sometimes he's blue. . . . He's got 13 men to look out for, 13 salaries to meet. . . . Then, what's left, he gets. . . . Yes, sir, sometimes he's hap-py. . . . Sometimes he's blue. . . . His dis-position . . . depends on you. . . . That's what the song says. . . . That's what Blue says. . . . Blue Barron, the band leader, who never played in a band and couldn't if he wanted to. . . . Blue Barron, old Cleveland boy. . . . Old Ohio U. boy. . . . Kicking around Athens, Ohio. . . . Kicking around the campus of Ohio U. . . . He went to school with Sammy Kay. . . . Kicking around Cleveland. Kicking around those Cleveland streets off Lake Erie. . . . That's Blue. . . . That's his home town. . . . Must be mighty cold there now, with that lake breeze.

Blue Barron. . . . Sometimes he hates you . . . sometimes he loves you . . . but then he hates you . . . because he loves you . . . That's right. . . . That's the song, but it's Blue's song now. . . . He heard it when Vincent Youmans first came up with the melody, and bulging Irving Caesar wrote the lyrics for it. . . . They wrote it for "Hit the Deck." . . . Blue couldn't get over it. . . . He couldn't shake it off. . . . Neither could Henry Thies, old Cincinnati boy. . . . Old Coney Island boy. . . . Henry Thies and his band. . . . Henry never would leave Cincinnati for long. . . . He didn't want to come to New York. . . . He used to be happy too, sometimes. . . . He used to hurt you when he would play "Sometimes I'm Happy." . . . It was his signature, his tag. . . . But Henry is dead now, and his men are scattered here and there.

IT DOESN'T seem believable, but it's true. . . . Blue never heard Henry play that song. . . . And when he organized his own band, it seemed only natural to take the song he loved best for his own signature. . . . He got a lot of letters from people who remembered Henry when he first played it that way, and they asked him why? Some of them seemed to resent it a little, and that's understandable. . . . Others were glad. . . . It brought back something they thought they would never hear again.

Yes, sir, sometimes Blue's happy. . . . Sometimes he's blue-e-e. . . . When he got out of Ohio U. he was earning his bread by booking band. . . . He was a booker. . . . He'd book you for one-nighters or for a month. . . . He'd book you on Broadway, or in a cross-roads hall. . . . About that time the big corporations and the broadcasting companies began handling the bookings themselves. . . . That made it tough. . . . That left the small-fry, the shoe-stringers, off by themselves. . . . Blue didn't want to lose out. . . . It made him blue to think that he might lose.

So he organized his own band. . . . It was Blue Barron's band. . . . If he couldn't book, he would at least have something for the other fellow to book. . . . So he just owned the band, and went around with it, but the public never saw him. He didn't appear with the band. Some other fellow stood up in front and waved the baton.

* * *

BUT there came a night when the man who waved the stick became ill, and Blue went on. . . . He's been there ever since. . . . You couldn't pry him off that stand with a crowbar. . . . That's how it is now. . . . That's Blue, old Ohio U. boy. . . . Old classmate of Sammy Kay's. . . . Old Cleveland boy. . . . He's happy now. . . . Sometimes he's hap-py. . . . Sometimes he's blue-e-e. . . . His dis-po-sition . . . depends on you-u-u. . . . You've been mighty nice to him, with your letters and your attention . . . He's on N.B.C. and on Bluebird records, and in the Green Room of the Hotel Edison. . . . Blue Barron in the Green Room. . . . He'll be there till April. . . . Then the long haul through the south. . . . Big towns and little towns . . . College towns and tank towns. . . . Then back to this town . . . And if it rains, why that's all right . . . He never minds . . . the rain from the skies . . . If he can see . . . a song in your eyes . . . Yes, sir, Blue Barron, old Ohio U. boy . . . Old Cleveland boy. . . . He's a New York boy now. . . . And sometimes he's hap-py. . . . This is one of those times.

Timely Editorial

Where Germany Is Losing.

The world's weirdest war reports a mass victory which is in danger of being passed over unnoted. Ronald R. Cross, minister of economic warfare, told the British House of Commons that Germany now is feeling the pinch of the blockade and embargo as badly as imperial Germany did after two years of the World war.

Under Goering's four-year-plan "guns instead of butter" Germany had been doing a strenuous belt-tightening such as few other peoples have ever experienced since the war. Rationing cards were issued a week before Hitler invaded Poland. These stringencies were enforced in peace time by the dictator who promised from the soap box to make Germany "the little man's paradise." The little man is now goose-stepping. Military experts do not expect the Reich to crumble tomorrow or the next day. However, they are certain the war attrition is going against the Nazis.—Toledo Blade.

CLUTCH TROUBLE

Budget Is Job For Congress

By HARLEY L. LUTZ
Professor of Public Finance, Princeton University.

The move to develop greater congressional initiative in dealing with the so-called "budget" is to be welcomed as a step toward the inauguration of a sound bugetary proceedure.

It is slowly being recognized that there is no such thing as a real budget in either federal of state practice. There is an elaborate and detailed summary of estimates which constitutes a request from the executive for the amount of funds set forth therein.

It has become fashionable to believe that the chief executive, president, or governor, should prepare this document, a view which implies that the legislature should have no part in its preparation. The legislation function is considered to be that of passing the appropriation acts in which the funds are provided for the various public services.

* * *

UNDER this limited and inadequate conception of a budget, the document which is transmited by the executive naturally has no binding or controlling effect on the legislature. It is in no sense the legislative program, and that body often tends to substitute its own ideas as to both expenditures and revenues for those which may have been set out in the executive requests.

Since the legislature, whether state or federal, has not actually formulated a financial plan, it proceeds by the hit-or-miss method of drafting and enacting a series of appropriation acts without much regard to the total or to the relation among the amounts provided for the several services. For this reason it has become axiomatic in our financial history that if the revenues suffice to cover the appropriations such a result is attributed to good luck rather than good management.

Any budget worthy to be called such must be a controlling plan for both the expenditures and the revenues. It must be accepted and approved as a fiscal program before the final appropriations are made.

Constitutionally the executive cannot impose a binding fiscal plan upon the legislature, hence it is obvious that the legislature must approve this plan, and approval necessarily involves a large measure of participation in its preparation.

* * *

THIS means that the first financial business of congress or of a state legislature should be to prepare and approve a budget, that is, a financial plan. A budget bureau becomes a useful staff agency for the accumulation of data that are required in the formulation of this plan. The recommendations of the executive are also useful. But in the end the legislature must assume the responsibility of determining what this plan shall be.

The legislative study and debate should be first concentrated upon its details. The plan, which would be the budget, should be approved in its entirety before final legislation is considerad relating to either appropriations or revenues. In fact, after the detailed consideration of the fiscal program as set out in this budget, the drafting and enactment of appropriation acts would become a relatively routine process of confirming the decisions previously made.

As approved, the budget should be a binding plan, for any loose and uncontrollable enactment of appropriations not provided for in the plan would inevitably wreck it.

It is not impossible to develop a reasonably sound budgetary procedure in this country, notwithstanding the constitutional separation of powers between the executive and legislative branches.

It is imperative that every effort be made to do this, for there can be no orderly financial management under the existing procedure, which involves a large measure of self-deception regarding the fundamentals of good financial policy.

Gypsy Stew.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

WHEN I was a little girl the gypsies camped every year in a lonely lane by Ruane's pasture.

For months the lane would stand empty, save for the rabbits scuttling through the hot, sweet thickets of anise, and the small blue butterfly that spread in a trembling web above the wild mustard. Then, between a dawn and dusk the gypsies would swoop down like a great flock of ragged, vivid birds.

Back of their camp the pasture rolled up to the sky, peacock green, with heavy winter grass—burnished gold through the long, dry months of summer and fall. And, against the green and gold and blue, the gypsy smoke rose in lavender wands.

I like the gypsies. They were an unclean, lazy bunch of thieves, but handsome and most friendly. I greatly preferred them to virtuous but dreary, respectable folk. Whenever I could I ran away and ate with them. Sharp as if it were yesterday, I can remember the smell and taste of gypsy stew . . . the wide, green twilight with the sleeping fields stretching out and out . . . the gypsies lolling around a great sooty pot, babies sprawling, dogs skulking . . . the battered vans looming black and shapeless behind the twinkling fires.

What was there about that stew? It was not like any stew we ever had at home, although I had no doubt that it was stolen from the same source. But there was a tang to it—anise, perhaps, or a handful of pungent herbs gathered and dried in their wandering.

Or was it the touch of the gypsy life—that life which, even as a child, I could see was not all romance. Fierce lashing suns and seeping rain, knife cuts and rags . . . hot brawls or broken wails beside some hurried wayside grave . . . a sudden flight before the angry law . . . did these things help to give a tang to stew?

Certainly there was magic in it somewhere. For, eating with them so, something happened that never happened over other food with other people. Squatting there in the dusty dusk, digging our fingers into a common pot, something for a little, made us all one . . . drew us together as fine silver and linen and plattered meats would never have done.

Peering through the shadows into their scarred bronzed faces, into their deep, defiant eyes, something in me woke . . . something in them answered.

All my life I have remembered that gypsy stew. And, with the years, I have slowly come to know its deeper meaning. For the years made a gypsy of me, too, sending me drifting down cruel, hard roads . . . camping in lonely lanes. And many a strange thing went to the flavoring of my scanty stew . . . danger and pain, recklessness, loneliness, anger and fear.

And a grave by the wayside which the heart will never forget, though the feet must go trudging on.

Gypsy stew—how many a pot I've made, how many a pot I've shared! And something came with that sharing which I never found in happy, carefree life.

Squatting there together, lonely and outcast and poor . . .

Dipping thin, work-worn hands into a common pot.

Dreaming together for a while, over some bright, small fire—

Laughing together, for a while, with our eyes defying the dark—

Something in me woke . . . something in them answered . . .

Eating from one bitter stew made us all one clan. Those who've eaten gypsy stew never can forget.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Tuesday, Feb. 3, 1920.

While returning to her home from work, around 10 o'clock at night, 18-year-old Ethel Dudley was murdered. (The mystery in connection with this tragedy has never been solved.)

Meeting of Ohio State Life Insurance Co., officials was held here with D. F. Shafer as host.

Louis Arting, the barber, received small alligator from John L. Barr, who was wintering in Florida.

Fred L. Tracy came from Scranton, Pa., to take position with Wagner Hardware company and liked Mansfield so well he has stayed ever since.)

School board discussed location for new high school but took no action.

Miss Margaret Bartz, former teacher at Western avenue school, died in Akron.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Sunday, Feb. 3, 1935.

Charles C. Cook, 62, superintendent of Mansfield reformatory shoe factory, died.

James Daugherty Butler celebrated his 81st birthday anniversary.

Son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Beddard, 228 Rowland avenue.

Mrs. L. A. Wales and Miss Ida Sturges are vacationing in Washington, D. C.

Miss Annabelle Hance, Bertha Heston and Kenneth Hance attended Military ball at Ohio State University.

TODAY IN HISTORY

On February 3, 1809, Felix Mendelssohn, the composer, was born. His "Songs Without Words" won him fame and his overtures were received with great acclaim.

Summary of Week's Happenings

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW DEALERS regard the five years just before the World war as the golden age of American agriculture: The "parity" at which AAA aims, in its efforts to boost farm purchasing power, is the 1910-14 ratio of prices-farmers-get-for-what-they-sell to prices-farmers-pay-for-what-they-buy.

The general level of farm prices now is the highest in two years—and close to the 1910-14 average. But in terms of how many bushels of grain will buy a plow, farm purchasing power still is 15 per cent under AAA's goal. To help make up the difference, AAA expects to distribute $225,000,000 in "parity payments" this year to growers of cotton, corn, wheat and rice.

Congress voted that appropriation last year. No such item has been budgeted by President Roosevelt for 1941. Whether legislative penny-pinchers will follow him so far, and risk offending farmers in an election year, looms as a crucial test of their economy ardor.

Subsidies Slashed.

As reported to the house by its appropriatons committee, this week, the 1941 department of agriculture supply bill not only carried no sum for parity payments: It had been shorn of $154,530,263 asked by the president for disposing of surplus commodities, paying bonuses to sugar planters, making loans to tenant farmers, and the like.

That 20 per cent cut brought congressional economies — if all survived final house and senate action — to more than half the $400,000,000 needed, according to the president's arithmetic, to avoid boosting taxes or the national debt limit.

Next day, however, Capitol Hill's economy campaign suffered its first major reverse. The senate appropriatons committee revived a $35,000,000 item for new merchant ships which the house had lopped from the supply bill for independent federal offices.

Nor had Secretary Wallace abandoned all hope for parity payments. He urged congress to work out some permanent scheme of farm subsidies not "subject to the shifting winds of political sentiment," and recommended his "certificate plan" to replace the processing tax killed by the supreme court along with the original AAA in 1936.

Some congressmen, he warned, were attempting "to scuttle the farm programs."

The president in a "birthday mesage," asked $7,500,000 to $10,000,000 to build small hospitals in poor rural areas. The program, he said, would be a "stop-gap" till congress finished studies of a much broader health plan.

At Home

How's Business?

Two months ago U. S. industry was tooling along Prosperity Pike at the swiftest clip in a decade—110 per cent of the 1929-30 pace. Since Christmas operations have eased off. Steel production is down a dozen points from November's all-time peak, and the industrial index for January's last full week stood at 107.

But that was 17 per cent above a year ago, when inventories were larger. Factories though slowing, still hadn't caught up with orders booked during the fall war boomlet. Auto output was nearly a third greater than for the same week of 1939. And airplane makers were expanding plant capacity to fill orders from abroad. War had shrunk European demand for some American farm products, notably tobacco. But of others—notably cotton—foreigners were buying more than usual.

* * *

Prejudice Probe.

When G-Men recently nabbed 17 members of a New York Christian Front on charges of plotting a revolution, the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, of Detroit, first "roundly disavowed" their organization, then called himself "a friend of the acused." Now a Jewish group accuses him of stirring up racial prejudice. And the department of justice has marked the radio priest for investigation "in due course." The investigator will be O. John Rogge, 36, a Harvard lawyer from Illinois, who has been airing political scandals in Louisiana.

Abroad

Priests In Poland.

This week's atrocity story from Poland reached front pages via Vatican City. A pamphlet issued by the Polish embassy there accused Nazis of aiming at "extermination" of Catholics in the part of Poland now ruled by Germans but not annexed by the Reich. A Berlin official denied Poles were being persecuted, but ducked comment on the charge that Gestapo agents had killed 19 priests—and said: "When arms are found in a Polish priest's home in violation of a stern decree ordering Poles to deliver up all weapons, such a clergyman is a plain sniper and must be treated as such."

* * *

Travel Notes.

Of some 85,000 U. S. citizens registered last summer in American consulates abroad, nearly 80,000 have since returned home. Now Washington is taking a census of those still in or near belligerent territory. The state department has "ordered" Americans from no area, but has "urged" them to leave England, France, Germany, Poland, Russia, Finland, China. And neutrality regulations ban new departures for Europe except on urgent business.

People

FDR at 58.

More than 100 mailbags stuffed with cards bearing dimes were dumped at the White House early this week. And Tuesday night 25,000 parties were held in America to celebrate the president's 58th birthday. Dimes and dance profits will go to fight infantile paralysis.

On his birthday the president feasted with old friends. His doctor said he was in as "perfect condition as any man of his age could be."

* * *

Crime and Punishment.

Driving through downtown Chicago, following a benefit stage appearance, movie actresses Constance Bennett and Anita Louise were stuck up by five masked gunmen and stripped of jewelry they valued at $33,095. "Never again," vowed Miss Bennett, "shall I wear any of my real jewels in the Midwest."

Science

Popping the Question.

"Modern homes," says Dr. Paul Popenoe, director of the Institute of Family Relations, "lack privacy." That, he explains, is why the flivver has displaced the parlor as a setting for romance. A full fourth of all marriage proposals now are made in automobiles, he reported this week from Los Angeles, only 23 per cent in the girl's home.

The average man's proposal technique, Dr. Popenoe adds, is disgraceful: "A common performance, it appears, is for the young couple to be looking into a furniture store window when the man inquires, 'How's about you and me fixing up a little love nest, huh?'"

* * *

Missing Link Found.

Television, thus far, has been only a local phenomenon—because its images could not be cast more than 50 miles. This week Radio Corporation of America announced television soon might be relayed between such distant points as Washington and Boston. Automatic relay stations at 30-mile intervals, RCA said, would do the trick.

Politics

Miners' Meeting.

This was the second week of the United Mine Workers' golden jubilee convention at Columbus, O. And again the 2,400 delegates representing CIO's biggest union, heard headline-making talk from their leaders and guests. Samples—

John L. Lewis, their president: "If the Democratic party thinks it can return to power without the support of labor, that is the pure depth of stupidity." Of Labor Secretary Perkins, he added: "I don't think she knows any more about the economic problems of this country than a Hottentot does about the moral law."

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, columnist: "It is the proper strategical position for any great labor leader to keep both parties guessing—and boy, how John Lewis has done that . . . !"

The convention opposed U. S. government loans to Finland, criticized NLRB for "permitting craft organizations to raid established industrial unions" and shouted praise for President Roosevelt—but refused to endorse him for a third term.

* * *

Nomination Notes.

In Illinois, petitions were circulated this week to put New Yorker Thomas E. Dewey's name in that state's Republican presidential preferential primary April 9.

In Ohio, Gov. John W. Bricker, who has been mentioned for the Republican nomination, announced he was backing his fellow-Ohioan, U. S. Senator Robert Taft.

In Short

Celebrated: By the Supreme Court, its 150th birthday.

Appointed: John W. Thomas, of Idaho, to the U. S. senate seat vacated by the death of William E. Borah.

Killed: Nearly 200 Japanese, by a train crash; 25 Mexicans, when a bus burned; a dozen Burmese Hindus and Moslems, in religious riots.

Indicted: Arthur V. Brown president of two Indianapolis banks, on federal charges of conspiracy to defraud the government through diversion of WPA labor.

Died: Dr. William D. Haggard, past president of the American College of Surgeons and the American Medical association; Dr. William Wallace Whitelock, poet and educator; Edward S. Harkness, who gave $100,000,000 for education and health.

Quotes

Alf M. Landon, 1936 GOP presidential candidate: "Historians will characterize the New Deal as the butterfingers administration."

Joseph W. Martin, jr., Republican congressman of Massachusetts: "Our front line is not on the Rhine, nor is it anywhere in France. It is at the farm gate and the factory door."

Vice President Garner: "John L. Lewis's opposition is the best political asset I have."

The Meaning Of February

—By JEAN NEWTON

The trees stand wistful in the square,
Wearing a half-expected air:
The sky is a slender silver bell
That waits to sound the knell
Of Winter.

—Anne Mary Lawler.

FEBRUARY, shortest month of the year, therefore contains less time for mischief; could this thought have been in the minds of the Romans when they named it?

At any rate, deriving from the Latin verb februare to purify, February means purification or purity.

Here was a virtue the Romans observed on February 15 by the celebration of the Festival of Purification: in the course of it a goat would be killed and skinned, the priests would take a strip of the hide, and, with it, circulate through the Palitinate, slapping the upturned palms of the many women who there were foregathered—the ceremonial being deemed conducive to fecundity and safe delivery.

February was not a subdivision of the early Roman calendar; it was added to it by Numa Pompilius, legendary King of Rome and founder of its religious institutions.

Numa made up the month of February and placed it immediately after December; then he manufactured the month of January, which he constituted the beginning of the year and put before March, this order prevailing until the year 453.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, February 4.

SUNDAY'S horscope promises much success and gratification for all clerical, church and intellectual interests, but in other directions there is urgent need for prudence and vigilance against deception, fraud, trickery and intrigues.

Those whose birthday it is may look for some solid achievement through diligence, hard work and from past effort or accumulations during the year. But there is much need for discretion in other affairs, with particular watchfulness as to treachery, intrigue, schemes and plots, especially when affixing the signature to documents.

For Monday, February 5.

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for a memorable and surprising development in the affairs that may be considered radical or reactionary. The mind will be quickened into strange, perhaps unique paths, demanding a complete about-face from old and effete views, philosophies and systems. This may lead to fresh fields of adventure.

Those whose birthday it is are on the brink of a year in which there may be a complete change in their lives mentally, physically and in associations, plans and environs. Such radical change may beget fresh or startling ideas and innovations and bring dramatic or sensational experiences or adventures.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

There was dismay on Queen Olga's lovely face.

"But," she faltered, "I thought I had stopped all that when I gave up my foolish pride and told him that I would marry him even if I did not have a penny."

"You see," I said smiling, "he was so impressed by what he evidently considers your divine sacrifice that he intends making it up to you. He still thinks if he restores your necklace and you think it has been found, you will again feel yourself financially independent."

Then she added plaintively: "But, Madge, we must stop him some way.

"Will you let me mull it over a bit?" I asked, for a possible solution of her problem had come to me.

"Will I let you?" she repeated. "My dear Madge! Please! I am so delighted, so thankful, to have you so concerned about my problems. Where do you want to sit while you 'mull'?"

"Right here by the window," I said, and the exiled queen, who rarely had been permitted to make the slightest movement to wait upon herself or upon others, placed a chair for me with such celerity that I had no opportunity to get it for myself.

"I think I have it," I said after a few minutes, as I turned my chair to face her. "But it involves an interview with Philip on your part, and a certain amount of acting, neither of which ought to be terrifying to you."

"I am listening," she said, and I outlined the plan which had come to me.

"If you would tell Philip," I began slowly, "that you had thought of a plan whereby your lost emeralds might be recovered, and that you would like to ask his advice about it, I am sure he would give very close attention to your plan."

"I am sure he would," she replied smiling, "and I take it, you are ready to supply me with a plan?"

"A piece of one," I returned, "but at least it's plausible. You might tell him that you had wondered if the emeralds might not already have been separated, and taken, either singly or in groups of two or three, to widely differing 'fences'. Then you might 'wonder,' in addition, if a thorough search might not be possible. If he thinks that is impractical, he will, no doubt, conceal his thought, but he undoubtedly will raise the objection that it is very difficult to identify single jewels. Then you could tell him about the tiny mark, known only to you,

"That's wonderful, Madge!" Queen Olga's eyes were gleaming appreciation of my scheme. "I'll do exactly as you have said. When do you think I ought to tell him? I suppose as soon as possible."

"It will be wise to let him have the knowledge of your private mark on the jewels as soon as possible," I assented. "He is coming back later to hear Olina play the harp—did you know he is sending up three for her selection?"

"No. How like him! I suppose when she has finished, it would be a good time to send for him."

"Indeed it would," I said, and after a few seconds further colloquy, I left her and went to my own room, asking Lillian to call me in 15 minutes.

GIRL AT THE FRONT + + + + +

By ROB EDEN

(Copyright, 1940)

CHAPTER XVI

"She would be quite pretty," she decided, "if she weren't so thin and could get rid of those circles under her eyes. It must be the poor food and the hard work."

"What hours do you work, Lili?" she asked.

"Only twelve, with a half hour off at noon. I get through at 5:30. The factory isn't far from here, and it doesn't take me long to get home."

* * *

Twelve hours of backbreaking work in a munitions plant every day! Nazism wasn't much easier for the women of Germany, Claire thought, than for the men fighting at the front.

A key was fitted in the lock. Frau Weber came in.

Claire was frightened by the entrance of Frau Weber, and wondered what she would have done if it had been some one else. Lili, on the other hand, had gone quietly about her work and without turning greeted her mother as she came in the door.

"How did you know it was your mother?" Claire asked.

"Didn't you hear the buzzer?" Lili demanded.

"I heard a very faint buzzing sound, it seemed to come twice, but I didn't pay any attention to it."

"You'll have to learn to listen to it," Frau Weber interrupted. "The buzzer is concealed in the moulding at the top of the living room and operates from the next to the bottom step of the stairway outside. Whenever Lili or I come up, we step twice on that step, and it is a signal to any one who is here. Oftentimes, whoever is here must quickly get out of sight as quite a few people come here."

"But suppose you are asleep at night? How could you hear the buzzer then?"

"There is a secret hiding place," the older woman explained. "If any one spends the night here who would be dangerous to us or in danger of capture if he were found here, he sleeps in the secret room. I'll show it to you a little later."

"How about Mr. Cameron?" Claire asked. "How is he? Is he safe? Does he know I am here?" The questions fairly tumbled from Claire's lips as she faced Frau Weber.

"A message has reached him—your message that you were told to deliver to him. He has it, and understands. He will follow instructions."

"He is safe then?" Claire cried, happily.

"For the time being, at least."

"Where is he?"

"In one of the old places, under a close guard."

"Do you mean he is locked up?" the American girl asked, anxiously.

"He pretty much has the run of the place, but there is a strong guard all around the palace and the grounds and it will be impossible for him to escape without help from the outside."

"Then I won't be able to see him?"

"I'm afraid not, my dear. It would be entirely too dangerous, and any slip might very easily cost him his life. You know human life here isn't valued very highly, especially in times like these."

"Did the other messengers get through? I was told that I was one of the three who were making the attempt to reach Mr. Cameron with the message you say has been given to him."

"Yours is the only message I know about." Frau Weber answered.

"Then you think . . . ."

"The others didn't get through," she said, simply, but there was a dead quality in her voice that told Claire as plainly as though the woman had spoken the words that her fellow messengers had either been captured or killed in their effort to reach Berlin. Capture was equivalent to a death sentence, anyway, except that the supreme penalty might be delayed a bit. She shivered and marveled at the good fortune that had followed her. There had been so many chances for a slip, but she had come through. Now, if Cameron and she could only get away as easily . . . .

* * *

A vague feeling of suspicion crept into her thoughts. Perhaps she had been deceived, after all. Things seemed to have happened too easily for her. After all, she knew nothing about Frau Weber and her daughter. Perhaps Frau Weber had lied about Bill Cameron's getting her message. He might be dead already, or condemned to death for refusing to divulge the secrets she knew the Gestapo wanted to get from him.

There was one way to test Frau Weber—to prove to herself that Bill was still alive.

"Do you think it will be possible for me to get a personal message to Mr. Cameron?" she asked. "I'd like to have him know I am in Berlin—that efforts will be made to rescue him. And I'd like a note from him, if I could have it."

Frau Weber looked at the girl closely for a full minute, her face absolutely expressionless. Then a slow smile, seeming to start at her deep-set eyes, spread over her face. Claire saw that the woman had seen through her clumsy efforts to test her honesty, and flushed with embarrassment.

"Why of course, my dear," Frau Weber said. "I think a message can be delivered and an answer obtained."

* * *

Claire was sorry that she had doubted her protector, but she felt a sudden feeling of confidence in the whole enterprise that had been entirely lacking before. She was certain, now, that she could trust Frau Weber to the limit. That she need have no fear of her or her daughter. It meant a reassurance all down the line—that Noel Yorke was all he had seemed to be, that Rene was strictly honest, too. That she hadn't been deliberately trapped to further embarrass Cameron or permit more pressure to be brought against him by her presence in Berlin.

Lili announced that dinner was ready and although the food might have lacked considerable in nourishment, she had contrived to make it tasty and there was sufficient to satisfy even Clair who was ravenous.

Frau Weber and her daughter kept up a running fire of conversation during the meal, repeating little bits of gossip they had picked up during the day. Reports of friends who had been heard from in distant parts—comment on the lack of news from Frederic.

From the way they mentioned him and the soft look that came into Lili's face, Claire shrewdly guessed that he was considerably more than a friend to the daughter.

"Your fiance?" she asked.

Lili half choked on a morsel of food, and nodded. There were tears in her eyes.

"They were to have been married early in September," Frau Weber explained. "Lili had her things all ready, and then suddenly Frederic was called up. His entire class was called and the next we heard of him he was fighting in Poland."

"He lived through that, thank God," Lili said, fervently.

"Now he is on the Western front," her mother continued "We heard from one of his friends who was badly wounded and brought to a hospital in Berlin. He managed to smuggle a note to Lili. It is forbidden, you know, to tell any one about any of the soldiers—where they are—whether they are living or dead."

"Karl sent word that my Freddie was well when he left. He was stationed with an anti-aircraft battery near Frankfort."

"Well, that is at least something," Claire consoled the girl. "To know that he is alive. I know something of what you've been through—I've been going through it myself—ever since Bill—Mr. Cameron disappeared."

"So?" Frau Weber commented, darting a searching look at the girl and then nodding her head as though her eyes had confirmed what she had guessed—that Claire was in love with Herr Cameron.

* * *

Lili said nothing, but her hand suddenly reached out and patted Claire's which was lying on the table. Somehow this simple gesture brought Claire closer to the two women than she had been before. She felt a kinship with Lili, the kinship of women whose men had been caught up in the maelstrom of war. Women who had to subjugate their fears and build them into hopes or else life would be unbearable.

Whatever happened, whatever the future held in store for her, Claire knew she would never forget Lili and her mother, her only friends in the midst of millions of enemies.

"What am I to do tonight?" the American girl asked, turning to Frau Weber. "Will it be safe for me to go to a hotel?"

"No, no, absolutely not," the woman said, hastily. "You will have to stay with us. It would be unsafe for you to be too much on the streets you might be recognized."

"I was afraid I was going to be this morning," Claire answered. "In your shop, when George Roland came in. That's why I hid my face behind my newspaper."

"You know him?" Lili asked.

"Yes, I met him in Paris."

Lili and her mother exchanged glances in which Claire thought she detected a tinge of fear.

"It is unwise to recognize anybody you may have known, anywhere, in this business," Frau Weber said slowly.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

TRULY "THE OVERCOAT"

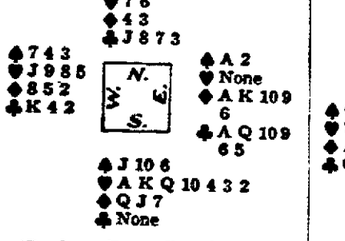
MANY veteran players speak of the spade suit as "the overcoat," because it can always cover any other suit at an equal level in the bidding. They have learned how valuable it is in taking the bid away from the other fellow or else forcing him up to a point which is one level too high for him. Even if the opponents have hands which enable them to bid a trick or two higher than your side, and still make their contract, the spade suit nevertheless has its value for sacrifice purposes, empowering you to take away the contract at a smaller expense than if you had to go higher.



(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

When the cards are so distributed that either side can make a game in its best suit you would think offhand that somebody is almost certain to get a game out of that deal. Peculiarly however, that is not so. Usually those hands are played at a sacrifice bid by one side or the other, the loss being much less than the deal would have cost if the opponents had made a game. This deal was an example of that.

East opened with 1-Club. South bid 1-Heart and North 1-Spade. East indicated his great strength then with the higher ranking of his two suits, calling 2-Diamonds. South rebid at 2-Hearts, North at 2-Spades and East jumped to 4-Diamonds, insisting on a game call from his partner. South, now knowing from North's rebid that the spade suit was a five-carder, bid 4-Spades, then East 5-Clubs.

Certainly this sounded to North as if East could make his contract, especially since his own four clubs to the jack lay immediately under East's suit. So he bid 5-Spades. East doubled him and set him only one trick—a lot cheaper for North than having to see his opponents tally a game.

* * *

Monday's Problem.

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

What is the best defense against South's 4-Diamonds doubled by West, East having bid and rebid his hearts?

ALLIANCE WITH BRITAIN ONE OF BORAH'S FEARS

Writer Claims Senator Felt British Constantly Seeks Military Pact With U. S.

department policies. Frequently he ejaculated:

"Our state department is nothing but a British embassy and the British know it."

He had even less confidence in the general run of American diplomats. Some, like Walter Page who served in London in Wilson's administration, he condemned in fortright language of being "British dupes." He often criticized others of more recent service.

Aroused by Royal Tour.

Borah's wrath was truly aroused when the British king and queen toured the eastern part of the United States last June, to lay a wreath on George Washington's tomb at Mount Vernon. The next day he told me:

"That was sacrilegious. I saw a photograph in the morning paper of the king laying a wreath on Washington's grave.

"All that meant to me was that the king was here trying to destroy the very thing for which Washington stood — his foreign policy — his warning against foreign entangling alliances—a warning upon which our liberties and hope of greatness are founded.

"That's the only reason they came here—to break down Washington's policy against entangling alliances."

After attending the state dinner to the British rulers at the White House, he had this to say of the royal couple:

"The king is not even an average citizen. He can't say a word for himself—only what his chancellor tells him to say.

"The queen is lovely and gracious. She has sense and intelligence but then she is a commoner and that is probably why."

I taunted him that he was alone in failing to be impressed by the British monarchs. I spoke of the huge crowds that lined Washington streets, that fought to get into the British embassy reception, that lined the roads to Arlington and Mount Vernon. I thought he was going to be angry with me personally, as he replied:

"Washington crowds would come out almost as much to see a trained chimpanzee. Eighty per cent of the people here are hero and royalty worshippers. Many of them are sorry their ancestors ever came to this country.

"They do not, represent the United States or reflect the opinions of the American people."

Borah frequently predicted that Anthony Eden will succeed Neville Chamberlain as prime minister of Britain. When and if it occurs, he warned:

"Look out. The pressure for an entangling alliance will be worse than ever."

Borah was profoundly convinced, up to his death, that the common people of the United States were opposed to entangling alliances or warring again in Europe.

Not long before he died, he said: "I am not one of those who think we are going to get into war. Whatever may be our sympathies, we are not going to back them up with force. We ought to have our own foreign policy and realize once and for all that there are no friendships in international affairs."

Report 100 Finns Killed In Air Raids.

HELSINKI —(AP)— Nearly 100 Finnish civilians were said today to have been killed in Soviet Russian air raids during the ninth week of undeclared war.

The intensified Soviet air activity, while Finnish defenders held against fierce Red army attacks on the Karelian isthmus, was reported to have taken at least 11 lives in yesterday's bombings alone.

However, Finnish airmen struck back at Russian bases on the Baltic, and Finnish military sources said at least 35 Red army planes were shot down.

Balkans Chart Plan to Stay Out of War.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia — (U.P.) —Fearful of the possibility that war may reach the Balkans by spring, the four powers of the Balkan Entente sought today some makeshift storm cellar in which to pass the next few months.

The foreign ministers of Yugoslavia, Rumania and Turkey, and the premier of Greece, in conference here, already have decided that in view of conflicting interests each country must be left free to fend for itself.

This precluded any definite plan for cementing the Entente into a stronger union and cost Rumania her chance for automatic support in case the rival demands of Germany and the British-French Allies for oil become unbearable.

The conference representatives still hoped, however, to agree on some common declaration and friendly program to improve their chances of escaping any imminent upheaval.

Their difficulties are due to no lack of a desire for peace on their part, the present situation being that the nations of a region once traditionally called Europe's "tinderbox" are trying desperately to escape involvement in western Europe's war.

The conferring statesmen were reported to have decided to increase their mutual economic contacts and to try to maintain economic relations with belligerent powers on a pre-war footing.

It was reported they would issue a communique emphasizing their "will" to settle all questions without force and in a friendly way.

2 ESCAPE DEATH AS ICE BREAKS

Willard Men's Auto Falls Into Lake 3 Miles From Shore as Companions Look On.

Frye flung the door open before the car was submerged and leaped out, grasping the edge of the ice. He climbed out on the ice just as two companions who were following in another car ran to the accident scene to help the pair.

Unable to get the right front door open immediately because of the pressure of the ice and water, Beamer went under with the car and battled frantically before he could get the door open and struggle to the surface. He then crawled back on the running board and out over the rear bumper which had caught on the edge of the ice.

Dr. L. H. Whisler and Clarence Boyer, proprietor of the Willard dairy, who were following Frye and Beamer in another car, saw the accident, but arrived too late to help pull the pair out of the water.

The car, owned by Frye, was still in the water this morning and it was expected that a wrecker would go from Sandusky today to get the car out.

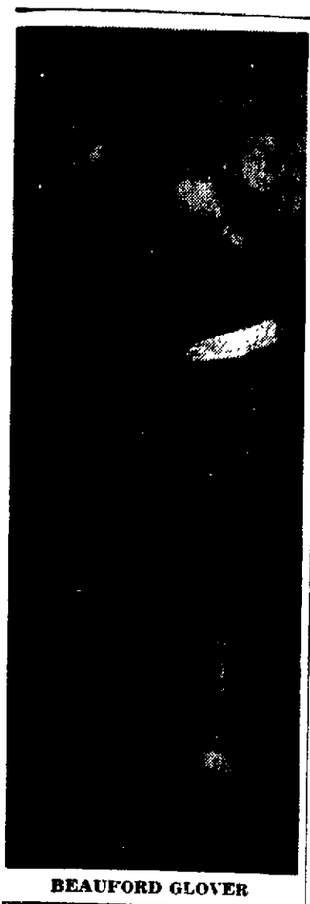
Glover Boxes Brilliantly to Win Golden Gloves Title



BEAUFORD GLOVER

By CHARLES MARTIN

THE world revolving around Beauford Glover has suddenly taken on a bright, rose-colored hue.

In eight days the Friendly House fighter has won a Cleveland Golden Gloves tournament open championship, an all-expense trip to Chicago to participate in the national classic and did more to add to the prestige of Mansfield amateur boxing than any other youth.

* * *

Glover, a 19-year-old mittster, who can throw more dynamite punches than you can count in a minute, climaxed his brief, but spectacular career, by decisioning Jerry Flemia at Public Hall last night to annex the lightweight title.

With approximately 10,000 wild-eyed fans looking on, Glover gave a boxing and slugging demonstration that left them gasping. He hit Flemia with practically everything but the ring post, but couldn't land the knockout punch.

Those rabid fans, eager to see Glover stop his rival cold, continually called words of encouragement to him. And the dusky ringster, one of the best of the 16 champions, measured Flemia a couple of times, but the Clevelander managed to tie him up before a bundle of sleeping powder hit his chin.

Flemia, the Downs A. C. hope, seemed willing enough to mix it up in the initial heat, but once Glover shot over a couple of punches he began back-treading.

Glover, who hadn't really been hit before last night, boxed brilliantly to ward off all Flemia's wild attacks. Not more than five times did Flemia land face punches and all of them lacked power.

* * *

The Settlement boy used a left jab with telling effects. While Flemia was breaking away from him, Glover was continually cutting up his face with that nifty jab.

* * *

Determined to score a knockout, Glover started boring in during the third frame, and Flemia had to hold on twice or he would have hit the canvas.

Flemia was on the ropes in that final period, but whenever Glover came charging in he successfully tied up his hands. Glover, who is trained by 'Bus' Dochla, won the unanimous decision of the three judges.

Glover is one of the eight lads who will seek more fistic glory in the Windy City the middle of this month. He is one of four out-of-town youngsters to win crowns in the open division.

Among the other four are George George of Lorain, who appeared in the J. A. C. tournament last spring, and Buddy Smallwood, flyweight from Smallwood A. C. Akron.

George decisioned Bobby Berry to cop the 175-pound title, while Smallwood, who took a close verdict from Paul Carbetta in a semi-final affair, won on a decision over Ernie Mossman, Collinwood A. C. boy.

* * *

Val Boston, who beat Al Sauers, in a semi-final in the 160-pound class of the novice division, lost a decision to Martin Nelson, Yates and Grant A. C.

* * *

Joey Maxim, who decisioned Jake Zacharias in an opening round match in the middleweight class of the open division, won that title by beating Larney Durrah, Goldstein A. C., but the crowd didn't agree with the verdict.

Maxim, considered by experts as the best amateur in Cleveland fight circles, had a tough opponent, and Durrah seemed to have the best of it. Maxim was unwilling to mix it up.

Bettina Beats Ex-Champion

Referee Stops Fight to Save Apostoli Further Beating.

NEW YORK— (AP) —They all stay too long in the fight game. Fred Apostoli, the San Francisco bellhop who once was considered the best boxer in the world, pound for pound, must know it today as he lies on a cot at Polyclinic hospital across the street from Madison Sguare Garden.

He was a rugged, confident gladiator, former middleweight champion, when he climbed into the ring last night for a 15-round cuel with Melio Bettina of Beacon, N. Y. Around the ringside, folks whispered he looked in the best condition of his meteoric four-year career.

When the gong clanged on the 12th round, he was a shambles, staggering, unable to find his corner.

* * *

The bout couldn't have gone further—Referee Arthur Donovan, Manager Larry White and the crowd of 12,000 all made up their minds at the same time. And White also decided Apostoli wouldn't go any further on any other date.

* * *

But for Bettina, the southpaw slugger who held the lightheavyweight championship briefly between the reigns of John Henry Lewis and Billy Conn, it was a different story.

Weighing 173 pounds, two and a quarter more than his foe, Bettina paced himself better than ever before and incomparably better than last month when this same Apostoli took a disputed decision from him in this same ring. He dominated nine of the 12 rounds and belted his foe into a helpless, pitiful pulp.

Bluejays Snap Butler String

Bellville Strengthens Title Hopes By Tripping Bulldogs By 32 to 28 Score.

SHAKING off the effects of their defeat last week at the hands of Lucas, the Bellville Bluejays turned on a last half spurt that gave them a 32-28 victory over Butler last night and strengthened Bellville's bid for the Richland county basketball league championship. A capacity crowd of 350 saw the brilliant battle at Bellville.

Butler's defeat marks the first time that the visitors have broken their vow—that they wouldn't lose a game in 1940—taken after they had lost four straight in 1939 county league games. How seriously the boys took their pledge is evidenced by the fact that this is the first they've lost in six games this year.

* * *

And Butler didn't go down without a struggle, either. Trailing 6 to 3 at the end of the first setto, they came roaring back with 12 points to put them out in front 15-11 at the half.

* * *

Bellville wasn't to be denied, however, and tied the score at 22-all just as the third quarter closed. Butler then took a 26-24 advantage, but Coach W. H. Miley's charges finished fast to finally win out.

In a preliminary game the Bellville reserves trounced Butler reserves 15-6.

Hammer, DeNero Star In County Victory.

Sparked by Hammer and DeNero, Madison High school's Rams staged a garrison finish in the final quarter to whip Lexington 31 to 24 at the Lexington high school gym last night. The victory kept Coach Al Fendrich's charges in second place, right on the heels of Bellville in the county league race.

Lexington started off strong, jumping into a 7 to 3 lead during the initial period. Lexington couldn't hold the upper hand, though, and as the teams went to the dressing rooms at the half the Rame led 12-11.

In the third quarter the teams battled on even terms, with the session ending at 20-all. Wade's stellar floor work and uncanny eye, kept Lexington in the running.

But the fourth quarter was all Madison. DeNero and Hammer domineering the play and giving Madison 11 points, while the Southerners collected a mere 4 points.

The game, surprisingly clean for the speed and vigor with which the boys played, was marked by the small number of fouls called.

Lexington had some measure of consolation in the reserve game which the local juniors took from the visiting reserves, 21 to 18.

Hager's Bucket Wins Game for Ontario.

JOE HAGER'S hook shot from close in gave Ontario a 24-23 victory over Union in a "sudden death" overtime game at Union last night. Just a few seconds previously Downs had put Union ahead with a charity toss, but it just wasn't Union's night.

* * *

After trailing eight to one in the first canto, Union came back to outscore the visitors 7-5 in the second quarter. Union kept whittling away at the margin, finally knotting the count just before the end of the regulation time, forcing the playoff period.

* * *

Union's inability to connect from the field—making only 7 out of 63 shots—or the foul line, where they converted but 9 of 25 shots was largely responsible for the downfall, Union's 10th in 11 county league games. For Ontario, it was its third victory.

The Union reserves whipped Ontario 20 to 13 to continue their supremacy in the county with nine victories in 11 starts.

* * *

It was the sixth straight conference win for the Shilohites and the eighth of the season for the undefeated visitors.

IN THE RUHL BOOK

By OSCAR RUHL
News-Journal Sports Editor

BEING a full-fledged promoter, Tim Nolan talks like a promoter.

Hollywood producers have nothing on rotund Tim when it comes to describing his promotial ventures.

They're colossal, stupendous and gigantic, and, it can't be denied, Tim has turned out some pretty good productions during the seven years he has promoted wrestling shows in Mansfield.

Monday night Tim will produce what he describes as his "deam show." And Tim really means it.

TIM NOLAN

"Nothing like it has ever been seen in a Mansfield ring," Tim is positive as he extolls the merits of the Finnish Relief Fund show he will stage for The News-Journal at the Armory.

"Two world's champions will be on the card," he boasts," and they're not synthetic champions, either.

* * *

"Both have won their titles in competition against the best in the business."

* * *

They're Real Mat Champions, Too.

THE champions Nolan will present Monday night are Stacy Hall, world's light-heavyweight king, and Billy Weidner, junior light-heavy crown-bearer.

Hall has never appeared on a Mansfield card, but he is no stranger to Mansfield fans, particularly the Ohio Staters. The light-heavy champ is a product of the Columbus university.

He is more of a wrestler than a showman, but he will please Mansfield fans. Tim seems to believe.

Billy Weidner is the other champion to stud the all-star card. The former lumberjack is a favorite with Mansfield fans, and they should be out en masse Monday night to see him face the hercules, Walter Stratton.

Stratton is a former weightlifting champion who has developed rapidly, and he can win over Weidner if he can combat the champ's cleverness with strength.

Hall's opponent will be the Masked Marvel, who is very unpopular with Mansfield mat fanatics because of his roughness. The mysterious one has not lost a match in 94 bouts, but he has never met Hall.

Prospects of seeing the Masked Marvel bare his face as he has agreed if he loses makes his match with Hall very attractive to fans.

* * *

These two matches will be the best two out of three fall affairs with one-hour time limits, and the double wind-up will be augmented by two shorter bouts.

* * *

Bob Steele Also on Benefit Card.

BULL MARRINO, another tough customer in the light-heavy division will tangle with Davey Reynolds, a good-looking boy who has made many friends in this city.

They will grapple over the one-fall 30-minute route as will Bob Steele, a home town boy, and Ralph Akers of Flint, Mich.

Steele and Akers met several weeks ago and the Mansfield boy won a close decision.

Tygers Romp Over Akron

Miller, Beer Lead Mansfield To One-Sided 46-29 Triumph; Reserves Rip Lucas.

DROPPING the pill through the bucket from every section of the court, Coach Vern Hoffman's Tygers raced to an easy 46 to 29 victory over a weak Akron West quintet on the Mansfield high court last night.

Mansfield jumped into the lead in the first minute on Russ Beer's free throw and the visitors never threatened once during the one-sided contest.

* * *

It is hard telling what the score would have been had Hoffman not taken mercy on the invaders and inserted his reserves in the third period.

* * *

Hoffman used 14 ball players in the victory, which was the Tygers' eighth in 13 games.

The Tygers rang up seven points in the first period before the visiting Cowboys even indicated that they owned an offense. The period ended with Mansfield in front by a 7 to 4 margin.

Mansfield cinched the ball game in the second frame when it outscored West, 16 to 5, to hold a 23 to 9 lead at the intermission. The Tygers added 15 points in the next period to hold a 38 to 18 advantage as play reached the final quarter.

With the first-string men on the bench, the Tyger reserves found the Cowboys a little tougher to handle. However, the Akronites never endangered the bengal team's lead.

Eight of the 14 players used by Hoffman broke into the scoring column, with Gene Miller setting the pace with eight field goals and one free throw for 17 points.

Beer was next high in the scoring column with 13 points.

In gaining one of its easiest victories of the season, the Tygers hung up 21 field goals and four free throws out of 15 tries.

* * *

The junior Tygers also came through in fine fashion last night to defeat the Lucas Cubs, defending county tournament champions, 43 to 28, in the preliminary game.

* * *

With 10 of the 12 Mansfield players accounting for one or more points, the junior Tygers jumped into a 11 to 5 lead in the first period, held a 19 to 11 advantage at the half and a 32 to 20 lead going into the final frame.

Hager, with eight points, and McGinty and Winbigler, with seven points apiece, led the Mansfielders. Franks tallied 12 for the county league team.

Mt. Vernon Runs Over Whippets

Jackets Register 13th Win In Row as They Protect N. C. O. Loop Lead.

SHELBY—Mt. Vernon high school's scrappy Yellow Jackets, one of the few remaining undefeated teams in the state and leaders in the N. C. O. race, turned on the power last night to outpoint Shelby's hapless Whippets 49 to 28 at the high school gym here.

It was Mt. Vernon's 13th consecutive victory, and, apparently, neither the 13th game jinx nor the Shelby basketeers threw a scare into the visitors as they rocketed off to a 13-5 lead in the first quarter. They increased their lead to 20-10 at the half.

* * *

High scorer for Mt. Vernon was Crumine who notched eight field goals and a foul for a total of 17. Close behind were Givens and Ransome with 13 and 12 points, respectively.

* * *

Bob Lehman, whose work at center has been one bright spot in a campaign which has netted Shelby but a single victory in nine starts, paced the Whippet attack with five and one for 11 points. Clark was close behind with eight points.

Mt. Vernon's superiority showed itself in its ability to get shots at the basket, the visitors taking 69 shots and netting 20.

"I HAVE BEEN DELAYED—EXPECT TO BE HOME MONDAY—HOLD TIGHT—OBIE"
HE'D BETTER GET BACK PRETTY SOON OR THAT GUY EMBERT WILL DRIVE ME BUGS
I WISH I HAD SOMETHING TO TELL HIM—EVERY TIME HE SEES ME HE BURNS HOLES IN ME WITH THOSE OWL EYES—I'M ALL WORN OUT TRYING TO MAKE HIM THINK I'M BUSY ON THE PILL SCHEME
JUST WHAT DO YOU SUPPOSE OBIE HAS UP HIS SLEEVE?
WILL HE DISCLOSE HIS PLAN ON HIS RETURN MONDAY?

Department Stores Maintain Gains During Past Week; Reserve Board Estimates.

NEW YORK – (AP) Leading stocks held to a narrow groove in today's market dealings.

Among encouraging market items was the estimate of the federal reserve board that the country's department stores were maintaining their sales gains over 1939. Despite sharp curtailment of spending in southern districts, the year-to-year gain in distribution last week was placed at 4 per cent. The same rate of improvement was registered in the preceding week.

Not so pleasing to the financial sector were the figures of the New York Stock Exchange disclosing members' collateral borrowings, or "street loans," as of Jan. 31, were $34,238,038 under the aggregate at the end of December. The latest total was $560,050,900.

THEATERS

Newspaper Romantic Comedy.

A whirlwind romance opens today at the Ohio theater with Carry Grant and Rosalind Russell co-starred. The film is "His Girl Friday," a romantic comedy with Ralph Bellamy featured. Grant is seen as the maddest man who ever ran a newspaper; Miss Russell is his capricious, captivating star reporter, and Bellamy, the fuming fretting insurance agent to whom she is engaged. Roscoe Karns, the comedian, sets a new record in this picture, when he portrays a newshawk, his 16th repertorial role on the screen.

New Characterization.

Marlene Deitrich in the role of a frontier entertainer co-stars with James Stewart in "Destry Rides Again," which opens today for a four-day run at the Madison theater. One of the season's most unusual pictures, this is a marked departure from Miss Dietrich's recent screen roles. The film is a dramatic spectacle of the old west in which hard riding and quick shooting are interspersed with stirring mob scenes. Stewart appears as the shy young deputy sheriff who brings a new order of civilization to the rough town of Bottle Neck by showing the people that guns aren't essential to law and justice.

Tony Martin Sings.

"Music In My Heart," the musical comedy which opens Sunday at the Majestic theater, stars Tony Martin radio and screen singing star and Rita Hayworth, former international dancer. Martin sings six new tunes, "No Other Love," "Punchinello," "Prelude To Love," "It's a Blue World," "I've Got Music in My Heart," and "Oh, What a Lovely Dream," the songs range from swing ballad to novelty. The second feature is "The Man in The Iron Mask" with Louis Hayward and Joan Bennett playing the roles.

Penner Comedy Film.

A rocky romance between a pretty waitress and a taxi-driver, which becomes highly complicated when the latter gets involved with a liquor-drinking race-horse, is threaded throughout Joe Penner's film, "The Day the Bookies Wept," which opens Sunday at the Park theater. Betty Grable is the sweetheart who is in accord with the hobby of raising pigeons but frowns on her brother's and sweetheart's interest in horse racing. A cross section of humanity woven around the life of a brilliant lawyer who would rather devote his life to dispensing justice in a small-town than win big-city headlines is presented in "Main Street Lawyer" which also opens Sunday at the Park.

Mickey Rooney Stars.

America's boy and girl stars, present and future, have their day on the screen in "Babes in Arms" the screen version of the Broadway musical success, which comes to the Ritz theater for three days. Headed by Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland, who are starred, more than 200 of Hollywood's most talented youngsters combine to present what is said to be one of the most entertaining musicals of the year. The second feature will be "Television Spy" starring Judith Barrett, William Henry, William Collier, sr., and Dorothy Tree."

THROAT BOTHERS HITLER AGAIN

Inflamation Due to Cold Keeps Chancellor Inside.

LONDON — (INS) — Chancellor Hitler of Germany is bedridden with a throat inflamation due to a cold and the strain of his speech Tuesday, the London Daily Herald asserted in a dispatch from Amsterdam today.

Two specialists have been summoned, the account averred, "but there is no indication of cancer."

(Adolf Hitler long has suffered from a recurrent throat ailment, and once underwent a throat operation. Suggestions outside Germany that Hitler was the victim of a serious chronic disease were, however, officially denied.)

BRUNNER BALKS AT PARTY POST

Says 'No' to Plan to Return Him to Chairmanship of Ohio Democrats.

1. Removal of State Chairman Arthur Limbach.

2. Replacement of National Committeeman Charles Sawyer.

3. Designation by Donahey of a candidate for governor unless the senator himself should run.

Limbach recently got into the bad graces of Ohio Democrats when he announced that the Ohio Democratic delegation to the national convention would be nominally pledged to Donahey as the state's favorite son, but would actually be in favor of President Roosevelt for a third term.

Brunner, popular figure in Ohio Democratic circles, was recently proposed by former Congressman Charles West as Ohio's second choice for the presidential nomination.
